LED consoles can be innovative.
THEY CAN EVOLVE.

Life Fitness has incorporated advancements in exerciser interaction and service notifications to create an advanced LED platform that's smart but simple.

EXERCISER CONNECTION

NO. 1

Wearable technology has been the top fitness trend in the annual American College of Sports Medicine survey since 2016.

NFC, ANT+, Bluetooth® and Apple Watch® compatibility are built into the Integrity SL console, offering the connection exercisers want and expect.

“ Used appropriately, and imaginatively, fitness tech is proving, among other things, to be an important—possibly essential—retention tool. ”

-Fred Hoffman, Club Business International

AN LED CONSOLE WITH AESTHETICS

Clubs benefit from a fresh, modern look that used to be reserved for more premium consoles. We took time to craft a console that's more aesthetically pleasing than other LEDs.

SERVICE AND MAINTENANCE MADE EASY

A man with a beard, wearing a dark polo shirt, is standing in profile next to a treadmill. He is pointing at the touch-screen console of the treadmill. The console displays '19: DIAGNOSTICS' at the top. Below that, there are several icons and buttons, including a green play button, a red stop button, and a blue button. The background shows a gym environment with large windows and other exercise equipment.

"The process has evolved way beyond the preventive maintenance of the past. Club owners must consider the optics of down equipment, lowered customer satisfaction and decreased member retention."

Tom Zentefis
Life Fitness Vice President of Global Customer Service
As told to Club Industry Magazine

A facility can set performance/preventive maintenance metrics and be alerted to them with a service/maintenance notification light on the console. Technology has been added to make it easier for service techs to diagnose and remedy any issues.
